Three women, a Christian, a Jew, and a Muslim, who are living the realities of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict come to the United States to call for an end to war and suffering in the Middle East and share their experiences and hopes for a just peace with American audiences.

Each woman lives the hardships of conflict and the tragedy of occupation in unique ways. Each has also witnessed the deterioration around them over the past six years of Israeli-Palestinian violence and the intermittent attempts to rekindle peace talks.

They have made a commitment to address American audiences about their hopes for the future and what must be done to improve today's unsteady situation.
