

CONFLICT PREVENTION THROUGH CONSTRUCTIVE DIALOGUE

by Maggie Herzig
Public Conversations Project

Learn about new approaches to constructive dialogue across our deepest societal and global fault lines: religion, culture, nationality and socio-economic differences. This event will offer you an opportunity to reflect on tough international, national and local conflicts and also about some of the challenges you face when trying to connect to someone who has a different worldview or identity than your own. What can you bring to difficult conversations that will help you transform old, stale ways of relating and discover new possibilities for understanding?

Monday, March 31, 7:00 PM
Martin Luther King Room
Ellison Campus Center

Co-sponsors:

Salem State College Peace Institute, SOS for Peace, Muslim Student Association, Student Historical Association, Veterans for Peace of the North Shore, Salem Peace Committee